PART II LEGAL AID

Scope of legal aid

4. Legal aid shall consist of—
- (a) the provision of legal advice and assistance to persons in need thereof who request the same;
 - (b) representation of persons in proceedings, including all such assistance usually required in the steps preliminary or incidental to proceedings, or in negotiating and implementing a settlement or compromise to avoid or bring an end to proceedings.

Persons entitled to legal aid

5. Subject to the provisions of this Ordinance, legal aid shall be available to any person whose disposable income and disposable capital are within such limits as the Governor may, by regulations, from time to time prescribe.

Application for legal aid

6. (1) Any person who, whether in his own right or in a representative capacity, wishes to be provided with legal aid shall apply therefor to the Public Solicitor.
- (2) An application under subsection (1) shall be made in such form as may be prescribed and shall be signed by the applicant.
- (3) If the applicant for legal aid is a child, the application may be made by his parent or guardian, but for the purposes of this Ordinance the child shall be deemed to be the applicant.

Powers of Public Solicitor

7. Where an application is made under section 6, the Public Solicitor may in the determination thereof—
- (a) make such enquiries as he considers necessary concerning the means of the applicant (and those of his parent or guardian where the applicant is a child) and the merits of the case;
 - (b) require the applicant within such period as he may specify to provide such information and documents as he may require;

- (c) take or cause to be taken such steps as he may deem appropriate in the best interests of the applicant pending determination of the application, including the obtaining of an adjournment of any proceedings.

Determination of applications

8. (1) Subject to the provisions of the following subsections of this section, the Public Solicitor shall grant legal aid to any person entitled thereto in accordance with section 5, and shall issue a certificate to the applicant in the prescribed form confirming the grant thereof, which shall specify any contribution due from the aided person and the terms on which it must be paid.

(2) The Public Solicitor may refuse legal aid to any person whom he is satisfied has disposed of any income or capital for the purpose of satisfying the provisions of section 5 of this Ordinance.

- (3) An application may also be refused where it appears to the Public Solicitor that—
- (a) only a trivial advantage can be gained by the applicant from the proceedings or other matter in respect of which legal aid is sought;
 - (b) on account of the simple nature of the proceedings or other matter, legal aid is not reasonably necessary;
 - (c) there is no real merit in the claim of the applicant for which legal aid or assistance is sought, or in the particular circumstances it would be unreasonable to grant the application:

Provided that an application which relates to criminal proceedings in which the applicant is a defendant shall not be refused where, in the opinion of the Public Solicitor, the applicant, if convicted, is likely to receive a custodial sentence.

(4) The Public Solicitor shall refuse to provide legal aid to any applicant who fails without reasonable excuse (the proof whereof shall lie with him) to comply with any request for information and documents made under section 7(b) of this Ordinance.

Applications by more than one party

9. If, in relation to any proceedings in which a person who has made an application under this Ordinance is or proposes to be a party, any other party makes application for legal aid the provisions of this Ordinance shall apply to both parties:

Provided that the Public Solicitor may either—

- (a) assign a separate assistant to act for each party in connection with the proceedings; or
- (b) in his discretion refuse the application for legal aid or legal assistance made by one party and assign a Lay Advocate to that party under the provisions of the Lay Advocates Ordinance.

Offences

10. Any person who furnishes any document, or supplies information, which he knows or believes is false for the purpose of procuring the grant of legal aid shall be guilty of an offence, and liable on conviction to imprisonment for a period not exceeding one year, or to a fine not exceeding £1,000, or both.

Revocation of grant of certificate

11. The Public Solicitor—

- (a) shall revoke a certificate issued to an aided person, pursuant to section 8(1) of this Ordinance where such aided person has been convicted of an offence contrary to section 10 of this Ordinance; and may
- (b) revoke such certificate at any time on receipt of information tending to indicate that the aided person has committed such an offence, and in either case the aided person shall forthwith cease to be an aided person for the purposes of this Ordinance.

Award of costs against aided persons

12. Without prejudice to the general discretionary powers of a Court to award costs in any proceedings, where it appears that an aided person—

- (a) has obtained the issue of a certificate in contravention of section 10 of this Ordinance; or
- (b) has acted improperly or unreasonably in bringing or defending the proceedings, or in the conduct of them, the Court may make such Order against the aided person regarding the costs of the Public Solicitor and, where appropriate, the costs of any other party to the proceedings as it may deem appropriate.

Contributions by successful aided persons

13. (1) Subject to the following subsections of this section, where an aided person is successful in proceedings in which he is or has been a party, either wholly or in part, and in respect of which a certificate has been issued under section 8(1) of this Ordinance, a contribution shall be payable by him to the Public Solicitor in an amount the equivalent of such percentage as regulations made under this Ordinance may from time to time prescribe, of the total sum of monies recovered or preserved for the aided person in the proceedings, whether on his own behalf or on behalf of a child.

(2) The Public Solicitor shall have and shall exercise a right of lien on and deduction from any such monies recovered of any contribution due under subsection (1).

(3) All contributions paid or recovered under subsection (1) and all contributions paid pursuant to section 8(1) of this Ordinance shall, on receipt, forthwith be paid by the Public Solicitor to the Financial Secretary for credit to the Consolidated Fund. The receipt of the Financial Secretary or any subordinate officer acting on his behalf shall be a sufficient discharge to the Public Solicitor and conclusive evidence of compliance with his obligations under this subsection.

(4) No contribution shall be payable under subsection (1) unless the total sum of monies recovered or preserved for the aided person in the proceedings exceeds the minimum contribution prescribed.

(5) The Public Solicitor, with the consent of the Governor, may by notice in writing to the aided person, waive, either in whole or in part, payment of any contribution due under either subsection (1) or section 8(1) of this Ordinance, where he is satisfied that payment or recovery thereof, will cause serious hardship to the aided person, and that in all the circumstances it is just and equitable not to enforce payment thereof.

(6) For the purposes of this section, proceedings shall be deemed to be successful where a sum of money is recovered or preserved for the aided person, either under an order of the Court, or pursuant to a compromise or settlement reached to avoid or bring an end to such proceedings.
