(b) it would be obvious to a competent and careful driver that driving in that way would be dangerous.

(3) A person is also regarded as driving dangerously for the purposes of subsection (1) and section 30 if it would be obvious to a competent and careful driver that driving the vehicle in its current state would be dangerous, and for purposes of this subsection—

- (a) “dangerous” refers to danger either of injury to any person or of serious damage to property;
(b) in determining the state of a vehicle, regard may be had to anything attached to or carried on or in it and to the manner in which it is attached or carried; and
(c) in determining what would be expected of, or obvious to, a competent and careful driver in a particular case, regard must be had not only to the circumstances of which he or she could be expected to be aware but also to any circumstances shown to have been within the knowledge of the person.

(4) A person convicted of an offence under subsection (1) is, without affecting the power of the court to order a longer period of disqualification, liable to be disqualified from holding or obtaining a licence for a period not exceeding 5 years.

in determining what would be expected of a careful and competent driver in a particular case, regard must be had not only to the circumstances of which he or she could be expected to be aware, but also to any circumstances shown to have been within the knowledge of the person; and

(b) a person is regarded as driving without reasonable consideration for other persons only if those persons are inconvenienced by his driving.

(3) A person convicted of an offence under this section is, without affecting the power of the court to order a longer period of disqualification, liable to be disqualified from holding or obtaining a licence for a period not exceeding 3 years.

33.¹⁰ (1) If a person is convicted of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring, or inciting the commission of an offence under sections 23, 30, 31 or 32, and it is proved that he or she was present in the vehicle at the time of the commission of the offence, the offence of which he or she is convicted is deemed, for the purpose of the provisions of this Ordinance relating to disqualifications for holding or obtaining licences, to be an offence in connection with the driving of a motor vehicle.

(2) If upon the trial of a person for an offence against section 31 the court (or jury, if there is one) is not satisfied that such person's driving was the cause of the death but is satisfied that he or she is guilty of driving as mentioned in section 32, it shall be lawful for the court (or jury) to convict him of an offence under this section.

(3) Upon the trial of a person who is indicted for manslaughter in connection with the driving of a motor vehicle by him or her, it shall be lawful for the court (or jury, if there is one), if it is satisfied he or she is guilty of an offence under section 30, to find him guilty of that offence.

(b) “traffic equipment” means—

(3) Nothing in this section affects the operation of or affects the law of trespass to land or any right or remedy to which a person may by law be entitled in respect of any such trespass or in particular confers a right to park a vehicle on any land.

(4) In interpreting this section due regard should be had to areas traditionally recognised as recreational areas.

Persons to comply with traffic directions

37. (1) A person driving or propelling a vehicle or riding or propelling a pedal cycle commits an offence if he or she neglects or refuses—

- (a) to stop the vehicle or pedal cycle;
- (b) to make it proceed in, or keep to, a particular line of traffic; or
- (c) to proceed to a particular point on or near the road on which the vehicle is being driven or propelled,

Penalty: A fine of £500 or imprisonment for three months, or both.

(2) A person on foot who proceeds across or along the road in contravention of a direction to stop given by a police officer in the execution of his or her duty and for the time being engaged in the regulation of vehicular traffic in a road, either to persons on foot or to persons on foot and other traffic, commits an offence.

- (b) is acting in response to a genuine emergency and he or she is using the telephone, radio or other device to call the police, fire, ambulance or other emergency service and it is unsafe or impracticable for him or her to cease driving in order to make the call.

Fitting and supply of defective or unsuitable vehicle parts

39. (1) A person commits an offence if such person fits a vehicle part to a vehicle or causes or permits a vehicle part to be fitted to a vehicle in such circumstances that the use of the vehicle on a road would, by reason of that part being fitted to the vehicle—

- (a) involve a danger of injury to any person; or
- (b) constitute a contravention of or failure to comply with any of the construction and use requirements.

Penalty: A fine of £1,000 or imprisonment for six months, or both.

(2) A person shall not be convicted of an offence under subsection (1) if he or she proves—

- (a) that he or she had reasonable cause to believe that that vehicle would not be used on a road in St Helena; or
- (b) that it would not be so used until it had been put into a condition in which its use on a road would not constitute a contravention of or a failure to comply with any of the construction and use requirements or would not involve a danger of injury to any person.

(3) Nothing in this section affects the validity of a contract or of any rights arising under a contract.

Driving with uncorrected defective eyesight

40. (1) A person commits an offence if he or she drives a motor vehicle on a road while his or her eyesight is such (whether through a defect which cannot be, or one which is not for the time being, sufficiently corrected) that he or she does not comply with the requirements as to eyesight as may be prescribed.—

Penalty: A fine of £100 or imprisonment for one month, or both.

(2) A police officer having reason to suspect that a person driving a motor vehicle may be guilty of an offence under subsection (1) may require that person to submit to a test for the purpose of ascertaining whether such person, using no other means of correction than he or she used at the time of driving, complies with the prescribed requirements.

(3) A person who refuses to submit to a test under subsection (2) commits an offence. Penalty: A fine of £100 or imprisonment for one month, or both.

Penalty: A fine of £500 or imprisonment for three months, or both.

42.¹² (1) If the driver or passenger of vehicle who is alleged to have committed an offence under this Ordinance, on being so required by any person having reasonable ground for so enquiring, fails to give his or her name and address, or gives a false name or address, he or she commits an offence.

Penalty: A fine of £500 or imprisonment for three months, or both.

(2) A police officer may arrest without warrant the driver or passenger of any vehicle who such police officer has reasonable ground to suspect has committed an offence under this Ordinance.

Penalty: A fine of £500.

Restriction on prosecutions under the preceding sections

43. (1) If a person is prosecuted for an offence under any provision of this Ordinance relating to the maximum speed at which motor vehicles may be driven, the checking of speed and other safety measures to be taken, dangerous driving or to careless driving, such person may not be convicted unless either—

(a) such person was warned at the time the offence was committed that the question of prosecuting him or her for an offence under one or other of those provisions would be taken into consideration; or

(b) within 14 days of the commission of the offence—

(i) a summons for the offence was served on him or her; or

(ii) a notice of the intended prosecution specifying the nature of the alleged offence and the time and place where it is alleged to have been committed was served on him or her or on the person who was registered as the owner of the vehicle at the time that the offence was committed.

¹¹ Section 41 amended by Ord. 14 of 2017

¹² Section 42 amended by Ord. 14 of 2017

(2) The requirement under subsection (1) does not apply if, at the time of the offence, or immediately afterwards, an accident occurred by reason of the offence.

(3) Failure to comply with the requirement of subsection (1) is not a bar to the conviction of an accused person where the court is satisfied—

(a) that neither the name and address of the accused nor the name and address of the registered owner, if any, could with reasonable diligence have been ascertained in time for a summons or a notice to be served or sent in compliance with the requirement; or

(b) that the accused by his or her own conduct caused or contributed to the failure.

(4) If a person is prosecuted—

(a) for an offence to which subsection (1) does not apply; or

(b) for an offence to which that subsection does apply, but as respects which the requirement of that subsection has been satisfied, that subsection does not affect any power of a court on the charge for that offence, if that person is found not guilty of that offence, to find him or her guilty of an offence under section 30 or 32.

Duty to stop in case of accident

44. (1) This section applies where, owing to the presence of a vehicle on a road or other public place, an accident occurs by which—

(a) personal injury is caused to a person other than the driver of that vehicle; or

(b) damage is caused—

(i) to a vehicle other than that vehicle or a trailer drawn by that vehicle;

(ii) to an animal other than an animal in or on that vehicle or a trailer drawn by that vehicle; or

(iii) to any other property constructed on, fixed to, growing in or otherwise forming part of the land on which the road or place in question is situated or land adjacent to such land.

(2) The driver of the vehicle must stop and, if required to do so by any person having reasonable grounds for so requiring, give his or her name and address and also the name and address of the owner and the identification marks of the vehicle.

(3) The driver of the vehicle must report the accident to a police officer.

(4) A person who fails to comply with subsection (2) or (3) commits an offence.

Penalty: A fine of £1,000 or imprisonment for six months, or both.

(5) If subsection (1)(a) applies and the driver of a motor vehicle does not at the time of the accident produce a certificate of insurance, or other evidence, as is mentioned in the Motor Vehicles (Third Party Insurance) Ordinance, Cap. 103,—

(a) to a police officer; or

(b) to some person who, having reasonable grounds for so doing, has required him or her to produce it, the driver must report the accident and produce such a certificate or other evidence at a police station or to a police officer as soon as is reasonably practicable and, in any case, within 24 hours of the occurrence of the accident.

(6) A person who fails to comply with subsection (5) commits an offence, but he shall not be convicted by reason only of a failure to produce a certificate or other evidence if, within five days after the occurrence of the accident, the certificate or other evidence is produced at a police station.

Penalty: A fine of £1,000 or imprisonment for six months, or both.

(7) In this section, “animal” means horse, cattle, ass, mule, sheep, pig, goat, cat or dog.

PART VI ALCOHOL OFFENCES AND TESTING

Driving or being in charge of vehicle while under influence of alcohol or drugs

45.¹³ (1) A person who, while driving or attempting to drive a vehicle on a road or other public place, is unfit to drive through alcohol or drugs commits an offence.

Penalty: A fine of £5,000 or imprisonment for 18 months, or both.

(2) Without affecting subsection (1), a person who, while in charge of a vehicle which is on a road or other public place, is unfit to drive through alcohol or drugs commits an offence.

Penalty: A fine of £5,000 or imprisonment for 18 months, or both.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2), a person is deemed not to have been in charge of a vehicle if such person proves that at the material time the circumstances were such that there was no likelihood of his or her driving the vehicle so long as he or she remained unfit to drive through alcohol or drugs.

(4) The court may, in determining whether there was a likelihood as mentioned in subsection (3), disregard any injury to the person and any damage to the vehicle.

(5) For the purposes of this section, a person is unfit to drive if his or her ability to drive properly is for the time being impaired.

(6) A police officer may arrest a person without warrant if the police officer has reasonable cause to suspect that the person is, or has been, committing an offence under this section.

(7) For the purpose of arresting a person under the power conferred by subsection (6), a police officer may enter (if need be by force) any place where that person is or where the police officer, with reasonable cause, suspects him or her to be.

Driving or being in charge of vehicle with alcohol concentration above prescribed limit

46. (1) A person who—

(a) drives or attempts to drive a vehicle on a road or other public place; or

(b) is in charge of a motor vehicle on a road or other public place, after consuming so much alcohol that the proportion of it in his or her breath, blood or urine exceeds the prescribed limit commits an offence.

Penalty: A fine of £5,000 or imprisonment for 18 months, or both.

(2) It is a defence for a person charged with an offence under subsection (1)(b) to prove that at the time he or she is alleged to have committed the offence, the circumstances were such that there was no likelihood of his or her driving the vehicle whilst the proportion of alcohol in his or her breath, blood or urine remained likely to exceed the prescribed limit.

(3) The court may, in determining whether there was a likelihood as mentioned in subsection (2), disregard any injury to the person and any damage to the vehicle.

Driving or being in charge of vehicle with drug concentration above prescribed limit

¹³ Section 45 amended by Ord. 14 of 2017

47. (1) A person who—
(a) drives or attempts to drive a vehicle on a road or other public place; or
(b) is in charge of a motor vehicle on a road or other public place, after consuming so much of any drug that the proportion of it in his or her breath, blood or urine exceeds the prescribed limit in Regulations made by the Governor in Council, commits an offence.

Penalty: A fine of £5,000 or imprisonment for 18 months, or both.

(2) It is a defence for a person charged with an offence under subsection (1)(b) to prove that at the time he or she is alleged to have committed the offence, the circumstances were such that there was no likelihood of his or her driving the vehicle whilst the proportion of the drug in his or her breath, blood or urine remained likely to exceed the prescribed limit.

(3) The court may, in determining whether there was a likelihood as mentioned in subsection (2), disregard any injury to the person and any damage to the vehicle.

Power to administer preliminary tests

48. (1) If any of subsections (2) to (5) applies, a police officer may require the person to co-operate with any one or more preliminary tests referred to in sections 49 to 51 administered to the person by that or any other police officer.

(2) This subsection applies if a police officer reasonably suspects that the person—
(a) is driving, is attempting to drive or is in charge of a vehicle on a road or other public place; and

(b) is under the influence of alcohol or a drug.

(3) This subsection applies if a police officer reasonably suspects that the person—

(a) has been driving, attempting to drive or in charge of a vehicle on a road or other public place while unfit to drive because of alcohol or a drug;

(b) and is still under the influence of a drug.

(4) This subsection applies if a police officer reasonably suspects that the person—

(a) is or has been driving, attempting to drive or in charge of a vehicle on a road or other public place; and

(b) has committed an offence under any part of this ordinance while the vehicle was in motion.

(5) This subsection applies if—

(a) an accident occurs owing to the presence of a vehicle on a road or other public place; and

(b) a police officer reasonably believes that the person was driving, attempting to drive or in charge of the vehicle at the time of the accident.

(6) A person who without reasonable excuse fails to co-operate with a preliminary test required under this section commits an offence.

Penalty: A fine of £5,000 or imprisonment for 18 months, or both.

Preliminary breath test

49. (1) A preliminary breath test is a procedure whereby the person to whom the test is administered provides a specimen of breath to be used for the purpose of obtaining, by means of a device of a type approved by the Governor, an indication whether the proportion of alcohol in the person's breath or blood is likely to exceed the prescribed limit.

(2) A preliminary breath test administered as required under section 48(2) to (4) may be administered only at or near the place where the requirement to co-operate with the test is imposed.

(3) A preliminary breath test administered as required under section 48(5) may be administered—

- (a) at or near the place where the requirement to co-operate with the test is imposed; or
- (b) if the police officer who imposes the requirement thinks it expedient, at a police station specified by that police officer.

Preliminary impairment test

50. (1) A preliminary impairment test is a procedure whereby the police officer administering the test—

- (a) observes the person to whom the test is administered in his or her performance of tasks specified by the police officer; and
- (b) makes such other observations of the person's physical state as the police officer thinks expedient.

(2) A preliminary impairment test may be administered—

- (a) at or near the place where the requirement to co-operate with the test is imposed; or
- (b) if the police officer who imposes the requirement thinks it expedient, at a police station specified by that police officer.

(3) A police officer administering a preliminary impairment test shall have regard to any code of practices issued by the United Kingdom's Secretary of State (as revised from time to time) about—

- (a) the kind of task that may be specified for the purpose of a preliminary impairment test;
- (b) the kind of observation of physical state that may be made in the course of a preliminary impairment test;
- (c) the manner in which a preliminary impairment test should be administered; and
- (d) the inferences that may be drawn from observations made in the course of a preliminary impairment test.

(4) A police officer must follow the code of practices referred to in subsection (3) so far as reasonably practical on St Helena, and only when that code of practices ensures that a preliminary impairment test is designed to indicate—

- (a) whether a person is unfit to drive; and
- (b) if that person is unfit to drive, whether or not his or her unfitness is likely to be due to drugs or alcohol.

(5) A police officer may administer a preliminary impairment test only if that police officer is approved for that purpose by the Director of Police.

Preliminary drug test

51. (1) A preliminary drug test is a procedure by which a specimen of sweat or saliva is obtained and used for the purpose of obtaining, by means of a device of a type approved by the Governor, an indication on whether the person to whom the test is administered has a drug in his or her body.

(2) A preliminary drug test may be administered—

- (a) at or near the place where the requirement to co-operate with the test is imposed; or
- (b) if the police officer who imposes the requirement thinks it expedient, at a police station specified by that police officer.

Arrest

52. (1) A police officer may arrest a person without warrant if, as a result of a preliminary test, the police officer reasonably suspects that the proportion of alcohol or drug in the person's breath or blood exceeds the prescribed limit.

(2) The fact that specimens of breath, sweat or saliva have been provided under section 58 by the person concerned does not prevent subsection (1) having effect if the police officer who imposed on that person the requirement to provide the specimens has reasonable cause to believe that the device used to analyse the specimens has not produced a reliable indication of the proportion of alcohol or drugs in the breath, sweat or saliva of the person.

(3) A police officer may arrest a person without warrant if the person fails to co-operate with a preliminary test in pursuance of a requirement imposed under section 49 to 51.

(4) A person arrested under this section may, instead of being taken to a police station, be detained at or near the place where the preliminary test was, or would have been, administered, with a view to imposing on that person a requirement under section 54.

(5) A person may not be arrested under this section while at a hospital as a patient.

Power of entry

53. A police officer may, following an accident in a case where the police officer reasonably suspects that the accident involved injury of any person, enter any place (using reasonable force if necessary) for the purpose of—

- (a)* imposing a requirement by virtue of section 48(5); or
- (b)* arresting a person under section 52.

Provision of specimens for analysis

54. (1) In the course of an investigation into whether a person has committed an offence under this Ordinance, a police officer may, subject to this section and section 57, require that person—

- (a)* to provide two specimens of breath for analysis by means of a device of a type approved by the Governor; or
- (b)* to provide a specimen of blood or urine for a laboratory test.

(2) A requirement under this section to provide specimens of breath can only be imposed on that person where that person is—

- (a)* at a police station;
- (b)* at a hospital; or
- (c)* at or near a place where a relevant breath test has been administered to the person concerned or would have been so administered but for the person's failure to co-operate with it.

(3) For the purposes of this section "a relevant breath test" is a procedure involving the provision by the person concerned of a specimen of breath to be used for the purpose of obtaining an indication whether the proportion of alcohol in his or her breath or blood is likely to exceed the prescribed limit.

(4) If a police officer has imposed a requirement on the person concerned to co-operate with a relevant breath test at any place, the police officer may remain at or near that place in order to impose on the person concerned a requirement under this section.

(5) If a police officer has imposed a requirement under subsection (1)(a) at a place other than at a police station, such a requirement may subsequently be made at a police station if—

- (a) a device or a reliable device of the type mentioned in subsection (1)(a) was not available at that place or it was for any other reason not practicable to use such a device there; or
- (b) the police officer who imposed the previous requirement has reasonable cause to believe that the device used there has not produced a reliable indication of the proportion of alcohol in the breath of the person concerned.

(6) A police officer may impose a requirement under this section to provide a specimen of blood or urine only at a police station or at a hospital, but the police officer may not impose this requirement at a police station, unless—

- (a) the police officer imposing the requirement has reasonable cause to believe that for medical reasons a specimen of breath cannot be provided or should not be required; or
- (b) specimens of breath have not been provided elsewhere and at the time the requirement is made a device or a reliable device of the type mentioned in subsection (1)(a) is not available at the police station or it is for any other reason not practicable to use such a device there; or
- (c) a device of the type mentioned in subsection (1)(a) has been used at the police station or elsewhere but the police officer who required the specimens of breath has reasonable cause to believe that the device has not produced a reliable indication of the proportion of alcohol in the breath of the person concerned; or
- (d) as a result of the administration of a preliminary drug test under section 51, the police officer imposing the requirement has reasonable cause to believe that the person required to provide a specimen of blood or urine has a drug in his or her body; or
- (e) the suspected offence is one under section 30 or 45 and the police officer imposing the requirement has been advised by a medical practitioner that the condition of the person required to provide the specimen might be due to some drug, and may then be made notwithstanding that the person required to provide the specimen has already provided or been required to provide two specimens of breath.

(7) If the provision of a specimen other than a specimen of breath may be required in pursuance of this section, the police officer imposing the requirement may, subject to subsection (8), decide—

- (a) whether it is to be a specimen of blood or a specimen of urine; and
- (b) in the case of a specimen of blood, who is to be asked to obtain the specimen from the person.

(8) Where a police officer requires the provision of a specimen of blood under subsection (7), such a specimen need not be provided if the public officer who is asked to take the specimen is of the opinion that, for medical reasons, it cannot or should not be taken; the police officer may then require a specimen of urine instead.

(9) A specimen of urine shall be provided within one hour of the requirement for its provision being made.

(10) A person who, without reasonable excuse, fails to provide a specimen when required to do so under this section commits an offence.

Penalty: A fine of £1,000 or imprisonment for six months, or both.

(11) A police officer must, on requiring any person to provide a specimen under this section, warn him or her that a failure to provide it may render that person liable to prosecution.

Specimens of blood taken from persons incapable of consenting

55. (1) A police officer may make a request to a public officer, who is trained to take blood samples or someone under his or her direct supervision, to take a specimen of blood from a person (“the person concerned”) irrespective of whether that person consents if—

- (a) that person is a person from whom the police officer would (in the absence of any incapacity of that person and of any objection under section 57) be entitled under section 54 to require the provision of a specimen of blood for a laboratory test;
- (b) it appears to that police officer that the person has been involved in an accident that constitutes, or is comprised in, the matter that is under investigation or the circumstances of that matter;

(2) A requirement under subsection (1) may not be made if the medical practitioner objects on the ground that—

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to a person if it ought reasonably to appear to the police officer that there is no likelihood of that person driving or attempting to drive a vehicle whilst his or her ability to drive properly is impaired or whilst the proportion of alcohol or drugs in his or her breath, blood or urine exceeds the prescribed limit.

(2) The presumption in subsection (1) shall not be made if the court is satisfied (by evidence on oath) that the defendant consumed such an amount of alcohol, after he or she ceased to drive or be in charge of the vehicle, as would be likely to account for the amount by which the result of such analysis exceeded the prescribed limit.

(3) Evidence of the proportion of alcohol in a specimen of breath may be given by the police officer who operated the approved device by which the specimen was analysed or by the production of a certificate of the kind described in subsection (4)(a).

- (b) the court which tries any alleged offence upon the trial of which the prosecutor relies upon evidence of the result of the analysis of a specimen of blood or urine provided under this Part, may (if it appears to be in the interest of justice so to do) order that the retained part shall be analysed, and adjourn the hearing to enable such analysis to be carried out;
- (c) a court which makes an order under paragraph (b) may order that the analysis be carried out by or under the supervision of such medical officer as the court may think fit, and a medical officer to whom such an order is addressed shall comply therewith and send a report of the result of the analysis, as soon as practicable, to the clerk of the court.

(2) If for special reasons established by evidence upon oath in any particular case, the court considers that it would be appropriate to order disqualification for a shorter period or to refrain from making an order of disqualification, it may do so (but no fact or circumstance shall be held to be a ‘special reason’ unless such fact or circumstance relates to the commission of the offence, as distinct from a fact or circumstance concerning the offender).
