- (a) must order the employer to keep records in respect of any future payments made to employees as required by subsection (1); and
- (b) may order the employer to pay a financial penalty not exceeding £1,000.

Part E

Enforcement of employee's right to minimum wage and records

Enforcement of minimum wage

16. (1) If an employee who qualifies for the minimum wage is remunerated during any period by his or her employer at a rate which is less than the minimum wage, the employee is deemed to be entitled under the employment contract to be paid, as additional remuneration in respect of that period, the difference between—

- (a) the actual remuneration received by the employee for such period; and
- (b) the relevant remuneration which the employee would have received for such period had he or she been remunerated by the employer at a rate equal to the minimum wage.

(2) In a case where there is or was no employment contract between the person, who is the employee, and the employer for the purposes of this Chapter, it must be assumed that there is or was such a contract for the purpose of enabling the amount described as additional remuneration to be recovered in civil proceedings on a claim in contract.

Employee's right of access to records

17. (1) If the employee believes on reasonable grounds that he or she is being or may be, or at any time during any immediately preceding period of 12 months has been or may have been remunerated by the employer at a rate which is less than the minimum wage, the employee may require the employer to produce any relevant records and inspect and examine those records and copy any part of them.

(2) The rights conferred by subsection (1) are exercisable only for the purpose of establishing whether or not the employee is being, or has been, remunerated by his or her employer at a rate which is less than the minimum wage and are exercisable by—

- (a) the employee alone; or
- (b) the employee accompanied by any other person the employee thinks fit.

(3) In order to exercise any right under subsection (1), the employee must give notice to the employer requesting the production of any relevant records relating to a period described in the notice, and if the employee intends to exercise the right conferred by subsection (2)(b), the notice must contain a statement of that intention.

(4) If notice is given under subsection (3), the employer must give the employee reasonable notice of the time and place at which the relevant records will be produced, which place must be—

- (a) the employee's place of work;
 - (b) any other place at which it is reasonable, in all the circumstances, for the employee to attend to inspect the relevant records; or
 - (c) some other place agreed between the employee and the employer.
- (5) The records must be produced—
- (a) within 14 days from the date of receipt of the notice under subsection (3); or
 - (b) at a later time agreed during that period between the employee and the employer.

Complaint for failure to provide statements or allow access to records

18. (1) If an employer fails to provide any written statement under section 14 or to allow the employee to exercise some or all of the rights conferred by section 17, the employee may lodge a complaint with the Regulator.

(3) Subject to subsection (2A), the Regulator must not consider a complaint under this section unless it is presented to the Regulator before the expiry of the period of 3 months—

- (a) from the date that the employer failed to provide the statement under section 14; or
- (b) following the end of the period of 14 days (or later if so agreed) referred to in section 17(5), as the case may be.

(2A) The Regulator may consider the complaint if it is presented within a further period the Regulator considers reasonable if the Regulator is satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable for a complaint under this section to be presented within the prescribed period.

(4) An order under subsection (2) may relate to more than one employee and may be so framed as to relate to employees specified in the order or to employees of a description so specified.

(5) Failure by an employer to keep records as required by section 15 does not relieve the employer from the liability to provide access to records and for the purposes of this section is deemed to be failure by the employer to allow the employee to exercise some or all of the rights conferred by section 17.

Complaint for failure to pay at least minimum wage

19. (1) If an employee, after exercising his or her rights under section 17, is of the opinion that he or she has for any period not been remunerated by his or her employer at a rate at least equal to the minimum wage, the employee may lodge a complaint with the Regulator—

- (a) within 14 days after receiving the records under section 17; or
- (b) if the employer fails to provide such records within the period prescribed under section 17, within 14 days after expiry of the prescribed period.

(2) The Regulator must investigate the complaint and, if he or she thinks fit, may serve a notice on the employer ordering the employer—

- (a) to pay to the employee within a time specified in the notice the sum due to the employee under section 16(1);
- (b) to remunerate the employee for any further periods ending on or after the date of the notice at a rate equal to the minimum wage; and
- (c) subject to subsection (4), to pay a financial penalty equal to 50% of the amount referred to in paragraph (a) in respect of all employees to whom the order relates, up to a maximum of £5,000.

(3) The Regulator may in the notice under subsection (2) order the employer to pay to the employee, in addition to the amount referred to in subsection (2)(a), an amount (not exceeding £200) the Regulator considers appropriate in the circumstances to compensate the employee for any financial loss or inconvenience sustained by the employee which is attributable to the underpayment or the exercise of the employee's rights in pursuing such underpayment.

(4) If the employer pays the full amount referred to in subsections (2)(a) and (3) plus half of the amount of the financial penalty referred to in subsection (2)(c) within 14 days from the date of the order, the employer is deemed to have paid the full amount of the financial penalty.

(5) An order under subsection (2) may relate to more than one employee and may be so framed as to relate to employees specified in the order or to employees of a description so specified.

- provision or under the employee's contract;
- (b) the employee has previously signified in writing his or her agreement or consent to the making of the deduction;
- (c) the purpose of the deduction is the reimbursement of the employer in respect of an overpayment made by the employer of any remuneration or of any expenses incurred by the employee in carrying out his employment; or
- (d) the purpose of the deduction is the satisfaction (whether wholly or in part) of an order of a court or tribunal requiring the payment of an amount by the employee.

(2) If the total amount of remuneration paid on any occasion by an employer to an employee is less than the total amount of remuneration properly payable on that occasion (after allowable deductions), the amount of the deficiency is for purposes of this Part deemed to be a deduction made by the employer from the employee's remuneration.

(3) Subsection (2) does not apply in so far as the deficiency is attributable to an error on the part of the employer affecting the computation by the employer of the gross amount of the remuneration properly payable to the employee.

Right not to have to make payments to employer

24. (1) An employer must not receive any payment from a person employed by the employer unless—

- (a) the payment is required or authorised to be made by virtue of a statutory provision or a relevant provision of the employee's contract; or
- (b) the employee has previously signified in writing his or her agreement or consent to the making of the payment.

(2) Any reference in this Part to an employer receiving a payment from a person employed by the employer is a reference to the employer receiving such a payment in the employer's capacity as the person's employer.

Remuneration determined by reference to shortages

25. (1) This section applies where, by virtue of an agreement in writing between an employee in retail employment and his or her employer, the amount of the employee's remuneration, or any part of it, is or may be determined by reference to the incidence of cash shortages or stock deficiencies.

(2) If the gross amount of the remuneration of an employee, determined with reference to any pay day, is, on account of any shortages or deficiencies, less than the gross amount of the remuneration, that would have been determined, had there been no such shortages or deficiencies—

- (a) the amount of remuneration payable to the employee on that day is deemed to be the amount of the gross amount determined as if there had been no such shortages or deficiencies; and
- (b) the employer may, subject to subsections (3) and (4), deduct from the remuneration paid by the employer to the employee on that pay day, or any future pay day, the amount representing the difference between the gross amount referred to in paragraph (a) and the gross amount determined after taking into account such shortages or deficiencies, and such deduction is not an unauthorised deduction under section 24.

(3) If the employer of an employee in retail employment makes a deduction or deductions from the remuneration payable to the employee as contemplated in subsection (2)—

- (a) the amount or total amount of the deduction or deductions on any pay day must not exceed one-tenth of the gross amount of the remuneration payable to the employee on that day; but
- (b) if the employee ceases to be employed by the employer, the employer may deduct the full outstanding amount from any payment made to the employee on or after termination of his or her employment.

(4) No deduction may be made under subsection (2)(b) unless the deduction, or the first in a series of deductions by virtue of subsection (3), is made within 12 months of the date when the employer established the existence of the shortage or the deficiency, or the date when the employer ought reasonably to have so established its existence.

Complaint relating to deduction or requiring payment

26. (1) If an employer deducts any amount from the remuneration of an employee or requires any payment to be made by an employee otherwise than as provided for in section 23, 24 or 25, the employee may lodge a complaint with the Regulator.

(2) The Regulator must investigate the complaint and if the Regulator finds that the employer has made a deduction from remuneration or any payment was received from the employee otherwise than as provided for in section 23, 24 or 25, the Regulator must serve a notice on the employer ordering the employer—

- (a) to pay to the employee a sum not exceeding the total sum of the deduction or payment so made; and
- (b) to pay a financial penalty not exceeding £200.

(3) The Regulator may, in the notice under subsection (2), order the employer to pay to the employee, in addition to the amount referred to in subsection (2)(a), an amount (not exceeding £200) the Regulator considers appropriate in the circumstances to compensate the employee for any financial loss or inconvenience sustained by the employee which is attributable to the deduction or payment required from the employee.

(4) The Regulator must not consider any reference under this section, unless the reference was made within 3 months after the date on which the deduction (or the last in a series of deductions) was made or on which payment was required to be made by the employee, or a further period the Regulator considers reasonable if satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable for the application to be made within the 3- month period.

Right to equal pay for women

26A. An employer must not remunerate any female employee at a rate which is lower than the rate at which a male employee in a similar position and with equal skills and experience is, or would be, remunerated.

Complaint relating to equal pay for women

26B. (1) If a female employee is of the opinion that she has for any period been remunerated by her employer at a rate which is lower than the rate at which a male employee in a similar position and with equal skills and experience would be paid, she may lodge a complaint with the Regulator within 30 days after becoming aware that she is being paid at such lower rate.

(1A) The Regulator may allow a further period he or she considers reasonable if satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable for a complaint under subsection (1) to be presented within the 30 days prescribed in that subsection.

(2) The Regulator must investigate the complaint and for purposes of such investigation, the Regulator may require the employer to produce any relevant records and inspect and examine those records and copy any part of them, but may do so solely for the purpose of establishing whether or not the employee is being, or has been, remunerated by her employer at a lower rate.

(3) If the Regulator is of the opinion that the employee's claim is valid, the Regulator may serve a notice on the employer ordering that—

- (a)* the employee is entitled under her employment contract to be paid, as additional remuneration in respect of the relevant period, the difference between the actual remuneration received by the employee for such period and the relevant remuneration which the employee would have received for such period had she been remunerated by the employer at the rate of a male employee with equal skills and experience in a similar position;
- (b)* the employer must remunerate the employee for any further periods ending on or after the date of the notice at least at such higher rate; and
- (c)* subject to subsection (5), to pay a financial penalty equal to 50% of the amount referred to in paragraph (a), up to a maximum of £5,000.

(4) The Regulator may in the notice under subsection (3) order the employer to pay to the employee, in addition to the amount referred to in subsection (3)(a), an amount (not exceeding £200) the Regulator considers appropriate in the circumstances to compensate the employee for any financial loss or inconvenience sustained by her which is attributable to the underpayment or the exercise of her rights in pursuing such underpayment.

(5) If the employer pays the full amount referred to in subsections (3)(a) and (4) plus half of the amount of the financial penalty referred to in subsection (3)(c) within 14 days from the date of the order, the employer is deemed to have paid the full amount of the financial penalty.

Part C

Work times and leave entitlement

Working hours and leave periods

27.⁸ (1) Except for the provision of emergency services and essential public services, no person may be compelled to perform any work on a Sunday or on any public holiday

(2) If the Committee so recommends, on the request of the Governor in Council or a Council Committee under section 8(3), regulations made under section 49 may prescribe—

- (a) rest periods (during any daily or weekly periods) whereby an employee is entitled to a minimum daily rest period in any 24 hour period;
- (b) the maximum number of working hours in a week averaged over a 17 week period;
- (c) the maximum number of working hours to be worked by night workers in any 24 hour period;
- (d) the minimum period of paid annual leave to which an employee is entitled;
- (e) the right of an employee to unpaid parental leave for the purpose of caring for a child;
- (f) the right of an employee to unpaid leave to attend to or care for a dependant in prescribed circumstances;
- (g) the right to paid or unpaid sick leave;
- (h) the circumstances under which an employer must permit an employee to take time off during the employee's working hours for the purpose of performing the duties of any public office;
- (i) the right of an employee to paid or unpaid maternity, parental and adoption leave;
- (j) categories of persons to whom subsection (1) does not apply.

(3) For the purposes this section—

“emergency services” means police, fire and ambulance services and any other such service that may be required in an emergency to deal with the preservation of life and property;

“essential public services” means services that are essential to ensure the health, safety and welfare of the public;

“public holiday” means any day which is observed as a holiday under the Public Holidays Ordinance, 1945;

“public office” means any office to which a person is appointed under the provision of any Ordinance.

Complaint relating to working hours and leave periods

28. (1) If an employer requires an employee to work hours, or fails to allow any rest period, or postpones or fails to allow any leave period, otherwise than as provided for in the regulations referred to in section 27, the employee may lodge a complaint with the Regulator.

(2) The Regulator must investigate the complaint and if he or she thinks fit may serve a notice on the employer ordering the employer to pay—

- (a) to the employee an amount of compensation the Regulator considers just and equitable in the circumstances having regard to the employer's conduct and any loss sustained by the employee which is attributable to the matter which is subject to the complaint; and
- (b) a financial penalty not exceeding £200.

(3) The Regulator must not consider any reference under this section, unless the reference was made within 3 months from the date of failure by the employer to comply with the regulations, or a further period the Regulator considers reasonable if satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable for the application to be made within the 3-month period.

⁸ Section 27 amended by Ord. 6 of 2020

Part D
Detrimental act due to enforcement of right

Rights not to suffer detriment due to enforcement

29. (1) An employee has the right not to be subjected to any detriment by any act, or any deliberate failure to act, by his or her employer, done on the ground that—

- (a) action was taken, or was proposed to be taken, by or on behalf of the employee with a view to enforcing or otherwise securing the benefit of a right of such employee to which this Ordinance applies; or
- (b) the employer was prosecuted for an offence under this Ordinance as a result of action taken by or on behalf of the employee for the purpose of enforcing or otherwise securing the benefit of a right of the employee to which this Ordinance applies.

(2) It is immaterial for the purposes of subsection (1) whether or not the employee has the right referred to in subsection (1)(a) or (b) or whether or not such right has been infringed, but, for that section to apply, the claim to such right and the claim that it has been infringed must be made in good faith.

(3) This section does not apply if a person is dismissed in circumstances where the provisions of Chapter V relating to unfair dismissal do not apply to the dismissal, or where the detriment in question amounts to a fair dismissal.

Complaint relating to detriment

30. (1) An employee who has been subjected to a detriment in contravention of section 29 may lodge a complaint with the Regulator.

(2) The Regulator must investigate the complaint and if he or she fit may serve a notice on the employer ordering the employer to pay to the employee an amount of compensation in respect of the act or failure to act to which the complaint relates.

(3) The amount of the compensation awarded must be such as the Regulator considers just and equitable in all the circumstances having regard to—

- (a) the infringement to which the complaint relates; and
- (b) any loss which is attributable to the act, or failure to act, which infringed the employee's right.

(4) The loss must be taken to include—

- (a) any expenses reasonably incurred by the employee in consequence of the act, or failure to act, to which the complaint relates; and
- (b) loss of any benefit which the employee might reasonably be expected to have had but for that act or failure to act.

(5) If the Regulator finds that the act, or failure to act, to which the complaint relates was to any extent caused or contributed to by action of the employee, the Regulator must reduce the amount of the compensation by a proportion the Regulator considers just and equitable having regard to that finding.

(6) The Regulator must not consider any reference under this section, unless the reference was made within 3 months from the date of the employer's act or failure to act as referred to in subsection (1), or a further period the Regulator considers reasonable if satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable for the application to be made within the 3-month period.

CHAPTER V UNFAIR DISMISSAL

Part A

Right not to be unfairly dismissed

Employee's right not to be unfairly dismissed

31. (1) Subject to subsection (3), an employee has the right not to be unfairly dismissed by his or her employer.

(2) Any remedy for unfair dismissal available to an employee under this Part is in addition to any claim for wrongful dismissal that the employee may have.

(3) Subsection (1) applies in respect of any employee who has been continuously employed by the employer for a period of at least 12 months ending on the effective date of termination; but this requirement does not apply in the case of the dismissal of an employee referred to in Part C of this Chapter.

Meaning of dismissal

32. An employee is dismissed by his or her employer if—

- (a) the employment contract of an employee is terminated, with or without notice by the employer; or
- (b) the employment contract of an employee is terminated by the employee in circumstances in which he or she is entitled to terminate it without notice because of the employer's conduct.

Effective date of termination

33. (1) Subject to subsection (2), “effective date of termination”—

- (a) in relation to an employee whose contract of employment is terminated by notice (whether given by the employer or by the employee) means the date on which the notice expires; and
- (b) in relation to an employee whose contract of employment is terminated without notice means the date on which the termination takes effect.

(2) If—

- (a) the contract of employment is terminated by the employer; and
- (b) the notice period under the contract of employment or required under any regulations to be given by an employer would, if duly given on the material date, expire on a date later than the date determined under subsection (1), such later date is the effective date of termination.

Part B
Fairness of dismissal

Fairness of dismissal

34. (1) If an employee alleges that he or she has been dismissed unfairly, it is for the employer to show that—

- (a) the principal reason for the dismissal is fair and of a kind such as to justify the dismissal of an employee holding the position which the employee held;
- (b) based on the reason referred to in paragraph (a), the employer acted reasonably in dismissing the employee; and
- (c) prior to the dismissal, the employer properly investigated the situation and followed all steps required by the disciplinary and grievance procedures applicable under section 21(1)(a).

(2) Fair reasons for purposes of subsection (1)(a) include—

- (a) that the employee is not capable with reference to skill, aptitude, health or any other physical or mental quality or does not possess the academic, technical or professional qualification required to perform work of the kind which he or she was employed by the employer to do;
- (b) that the conduct of the employee is unsatisfactory;
- (c) that the employee could not continue to work in the position which he or she held without contravening (either on his or her part or on that of the employer) a duty or restriction imposed by or under any law;
- (d) redundancy of the employee;
- (e) retirement of the employee in accordance with the provisions contained in the contract of employment; or
- (f) any other substantial reason, including expiry of a fixed term contract.

(3) Failure by the employer to follow or complete any procedures referred to in subsection (1)(c) means that the dismissal is unfair, unless the failure is caused, or substantially contributed to, by the employee's own conduct.

Gross misconduct of employee

35. (1) Regardless of any minimum notice period required under the contract of employment or prescribed by regulations, an employer may, in the case of suspected gross misconduct by an employee, suspend the employment of the employee with immediate effect pending an investigation into the misconduct.

(2) If upon completion of the investigation into the misconduct, it is found that the employee's conduct constitutes gross misconduct, the employer may dismiss the employee with immediate effect.

(3) Gross misconduct for the purposes of this section includes, but is not limited to, theft, fraud or violent behaviour by the employee (whether in connection with his or her employment or otherwise).

Part C

Circumstances where dismissal may be unfair regardless of period of employment

Asserting a statutory right

36. Dismissal of an employee may be unfair regardless of the minimum period of employment referred to in section 31(3), if the sole or principal reason for the dismissal is that an action was taken, or was proposed to be taken, by or on behalf of the employee with a view to enforcing or otherwise securing the benefit of any statutory right of the employee under any legislation.

Health and safety

37. (1) Dismissal of an employee may be unfair regardless of the minimum period of employment referred to in section 31(3), if the sole or principal reason for the dismissal is that—

- (a) having been designated by the employer to carry out activities in connection with preventing or reducing risks to health and safety at work, the employee carried out, or proposed to carry out, such activities;
- (b) being a representative of workers on matters of health and safety at work or a member of a safety committee (in accordance with any law, or being acknowledged as such by the employer), the employee performed, or proposed to perform, any functions as such a representative or a member of such a committee;
- (c) being an employee at a place where there was no such representative or safety committee, or there was such a representative or safety committee but it was not reasonably practicable for the employee to raise the matter by those means, the employee brought to his or her employer's attention, by reasonable means, circumstances connected with his or her work which the employee reasonably believed were harmful or potentially harmful to health or safety;
- (d) in circumstances of danger which the employee reasonably believed to be serious and imminent and which the employee could not reasonably have been expected to avert, the employee left or proposed to leave or, while the danger persisted, refused to return to his or her place of work or any dangerous part of his or her place of work; or
- (e) in circumstances of danger which the employee reasonably believed to be serious and imminent, the employee took, or proposed to take, appropriate steps to protect himself or herself or other persons from the danger.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1)(e), whether steps which an employee took, or proposed to take, were appropriate must be judged by reference to all the circumstances including, in particular, the employee's knowledge and the facilities and advice available to him or her at the time.

(3) If the sole or principal reason for the dismissal of an employee is that specified in subsection (1)(e), the employee is not to be regarded as unfairly dismissed if the employer shows that it was, or would have been, so negligent for the employee to take the steps which he or she took, or proposed to take, that a reasonable employer might have dismissed the employee for taking, or proposing to take, them.

Public interest disclosure

38. Dismissal of an employee may be unfair regardless of the minimum period of employment referred to in section 31(3), if the sole or principal reason for the dismissal is the disclosure by the employee, in good faith, of concerns about any crime, civil offence (including negligence, breach of contract or breach of administrative law), miscarriages of justice, dangers to health and safety or the environment and the concealment of any of such activities in the work place, if the disclosure is made—

- (a) to his or her employer;
- (b) to some other person responsible for the malpractice;
- (c) to the person who appointed the employer as a contractor;
- (d) to a prescribed regulator;
- (e) in the course of obtaining legal advice; or
- (f) to the police, an elected member of the Legislative Council, the Governor, the Chief Secretary, the Financial Secretary or the Attorney General, but only if—
 - (i) the employee reasonably believed that he or she would be victimised if he or she raised the matter internally or with a prescribed regulator;
 - (ii) there was no prescribed regulator and he or she reasonably believed that the evidence was likely to be concealed or destroyed;
 - (iii) the concern had already been raised with the employer or a prescribed regulator; or
 - (iv) the concern was of an exceptionally serious nature.

Pregnancy, childbirth or maternity

39. Dismissal of an employee may be unfair regardless of the minimum period of employment referred to in section 31(3), if the sole or principal reason for such dismissal relates to pregnancy, childbirth or maternity of the employee.

Part D

Remedies for Unfair Dismissal

Interim order for payment of wages or salary

40. (1) An employee who refers or intends to refer a claim for unfair dismissal under section 41 to the Regulator based on any reason referred to in section 36, 37, 38 or 39 may, within 7 days from the effective date of termination, apply to the Regulator for an interim order for his or her wages or salary to be continued, or re-commenced, and to be paid until the matter is finally determined, or for any shorter period the Regulator thinks fit.

(2) The Regulator may, if he or she thinks fit, in accordance with subsection (1), order the employer to continue to pay the employee, forthwith and from the effective date of termination, wages or salary at the same rate as the employee was paid at the effective date of termination. If the employee was not paid up to the effective date of termination the Regulator may make the order to run from the date to which the employee was paid.

Referral of claim for unfair dismissal to Regulator

41. (1) An employee who claims to have been unfairly dismissed by his or her employer may refer the matter to the Regulator.

(2) The Regulator must determine the matter and if the Regulator finds in favour of the employee, he or she—

- (a) must make a declaration to this effect;
- (b) may make an award of compensation to be paid by the employer to the employee as provided for in section 44; and
- (c) must order the employer to pay a financial penalty not exceeding £200.

(3) Repealed

(4) The Regulator must not consider any referral under this section unless it was made within 3 months from the effective date of termination, or a further period the Regulator considers reasonable if satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable for the application to be made within the 3- month period.

Order for reinstatement

42. Repealed

Order for re-engagement

43. Repealed

Order for compensation

44. (1) Compensation awarded by the Regulator under section 41(2)(b) may comprise—

- (a) a basic award calculated in the manner referred to in subsection (2) below; and
- (b) a compensatory award which the Regulator considers just and equitable in the circumstances of the dismissal and having regard to the loss suffered by the employee as a result of the unfair dismissal.

(2) The amount of the basic award referred to in subsection (1)(a) must be calculated by—

- (a) determining the number of years, ending with the effective date of termination, during which the employee was continuously employed by the employer; and
- (b) allowing for each of those years of employment—
 - (i) one and a half weeks' pay for every year of employment in which the employee was aged 41 years or older;
 - (ii) one week's pay for every year of employment (not falling within paragraph (i)) in which the employee was aged 22 years or older; and
 - (iii) half a week's pay for every year of employment that does not fall within paragraph (i) or (ii).

(2A) If the employee was continuously employed for more than 20 years, only the last 20 years of employment must be taken into account for purposes of determining the amount of the basic award under subsection (1).

(3) The amount of the basic award (before any reduction under subsection (4)) must not be more than £5,000 or an amount prescribed by regulations made by the Governor in Council.

(4) If the Regulator finds any factors exist that would justify ~~that~~ the amount of the basic award being reduced to any extent, the Regulator must reduce the amount of the basic award to an extent the Regulator considers just and equitable having regard to that finding.

CHAPTER VI APPEAL AND ENFORCEMENT OF ORDERS

Part A Appeal against Regulator decision

Appeal against order relating to minimum wage

45. (1) A person against whom an order is made under section 18 or 19 may appeal against the order to the Supreme Court within 30 days following the date of service of the notice.

(1A) An appeal under subsection (1) must be determined on the basis of written evidence (either sworn or unsworn) and submissions, produced and filed in a manner and form prescribed by rules of court.

(1B) If the Chief Justice considers that an oral hearing is necessary in the interests of justice, the Chief Justice may order that a particular appeal must be dealt with at an oral hearing,

(2) On an appeal under subsection (1), the Supreme Court must not uphold the appeal, unless it is established with respect to the relevant order—

- (a) that the facts are such that had the Regulator been aware of them, the Registrar would not reasonably have come to the conclusion giving rise to the order;
- (b) if the order relates to 2 or more employees, that the facts are such that had the Regulator been aware of them, the Registrar would have had no reason to include some of the employees in the order against the appellant; or
- (c) if the order imposes a requirement under section 18(2) in relation to an employee—
 - (i) that no sum was due to the employee under section 16(1); or
 - (ii) that the amount specified in the order as the sum due to the employee under that section is incorrect.

(3) The Supreme Court may uphold the decision of the Regulator or amend the decision and substitute its own decision, and costs will be at the discretion of the Court.

Appeal against order relating to other employee rights

46. (1) An employer or an employee who is dissatisfied with the decision of the Regulator under section 15, 22, 26, 26B, 28, 30, 40(2) or 41 may appeal to the Supreme Court by giving notice in writing within 30 days from the date of the Regulator's order.

(1A) An appeal under this section must be determined on the basis of written evidence (either sworn or unsworn) and submissions, produced and filed in a manner and form prescribed by rules of court.

(1B) If the Chief Justice considers that an oral hearing is necessary in the interests of justice, the Chief Justice may order that a particular appeal must be dealt with at an oral hearing,

(2) The Supreme Court may uphold the decision of the Regulator or amend the decision and substitute its own decision, and costs will be at the discretion of the Court.

(3) In amending the decision of the Regulator, the Supreme Court may impose a financial penalty upon an employer not exceeding £400.

Part B Enforcement of Orders

Enforcement of Regulator's orders

47. (1) Subject to any right of appeal against an order by the Regulator, any amount payable under such order is, if not paid within the period prescribed in the notice (or if no such period is prescribed within 30 days from the date of the notice) recoverable by execution issued from the Magistrates' Court as if it were payable under an order of that court.

(2) A person who fails to comply with an order of the Regulator under section 18(2)(a), 19(2)(b), 22(2)(a), 26(2)(a), 26B(3)(b) or 28(2)(a) or 41(2)(a) commits an offence.
Penalty: A fine of £3,000.

(3) If any such offence committed by a corporate body is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance of, or to be attributable to any neglect on the part of, any person who is a director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or who purports to act in any such capacity, that person as well as the body corporate commits that offence and is liable to be proceeded against accordingly.

Financial penalties

48. (1) The imposition of any financial penalty under Chapter III, IV, V or VI is not a criminal conviction, and such penalty is not a fine.

(2) Every financial penalty must, unless otherwise provided under this Ordinance, be paid to the Clerk of the Peace within 30 days from the date on which it is imposed and must be accounted for by the Clerk of the Peace as if it were a fine.

(3) If a financial penalty is not paid in accordance with subsection (2), the person who is liable to pay it commits an offence.
Penalty: A fine of 20 times the amount of the financial penalty.

(4) If a fine is imposed under subsection (3), the financial penalty is thereby discharged.

(5) If under this Ordinance the Regulator receives any sum by way of a financial penalty, it must as soon as possible be paid into the Consolidated Fund.

CHAPTER VII MISCELLANEOUS

Regulations

49. (1) The Governor in Council may make regulations generally for carrying into effect the provisions of this Ordinance.

- (2) Without limiting subsection (1), regulations may provide for—
- (a)* forms to be used, fees to be paid, and procedures to be adopted for or in connection with the operation of this Ordinance;

- (t) any connected proceedings, for wrongful dismissal or otherwise, in a court of law in St Helena or elsewhere.

Procedure after receipt of complaint or claim

4. (1) The Regulator must copy to the employer the complaint or claim form, and require the employer to respond to it within 14 days.

(2) The Regulator may require the employee or employer to clarify any ambiguity in the complaint or claim or any response to it and invite the employee or employer to comment upon any information received from the employer or employee, within 14 days of such request.

(3) On receipt of any comments or responses from the employee or employer at any stage in the proceedings, the Regulator must provide copies of these to all other parties.

Decision of Regulator

5. (1) The Regulator, on being satisfied that all preliminary inquiries have been completed, may dismiss all, or part only, of a complaint or claim or response and proceed to dispose of the complaint and claim or response, or part of it, not so dismissed.

(2) If facts become apparent to the Regulator in the course of proceedings, such that in the opinion of the Regulator these Regulations would have had effect otherwise if such facts had been known at a previous time, the Regulator may cease to proceed with proceedings whether by a stay or dismissal of all or part of the complaint or claim or response.

(3) If it appears to the Regulator that the matter complained of is the subject of proceedings in a court of law in St Helena or that the matter complained of is a matter in respect of which the employee has a remedy by way of proceedings in a court of law in St Helena, and that in the particular circumstances it is not appropriate for the Regulator to consider a complaint or claim, the Regulator may dismiss or stay any proceedings until a time the Regulator directs.

(4) The Regulator must provide the employee and the employer with a copy of any decision under this regulation.

Hearings on disputed fact or law

6. (1) The Regulator must, unless all parties agree that the Regulator can determine the matter on written submissions, convene a hearing or hearings in relation to all or any part of a complaint or claim or response so as to consider part or all of any matter of law or fact in dispute.

(2) The Regulator must give at least 14 days' notice to the parties of a hearing, unless all parties agree to a shorter period of notice.

(3) At a hearing the employee and employer, or their authorised representatives, must be given an opportunity to attend, to call witnesses with the permission of the Regulator, and to make representations.

(4) Evidence given by a witness at any hearing must be on oath or affirmation of that witness, unless the Regulator otherwise directs.

Procedural orders of Regulator

7. The Regulator may, at any time, on the Regulator's own initiative or on the application of any party, make any orders that are necessary or reasonable in all matters relating to—

- (a) admission of documents and facts, and the discovery, inspection, production, impounding and return of documents or other material objects producible as evidence;
- (b) joinder or separation of complaints or claims, employees or employers;
- (c) adding or removing parties to the complaint or claim or response;

- (e) issuing of summonses to persons whose attendance is required either to give evidence or to produce documents or such other objects as aforesaid;
- (f) proving any fact by affidavit;
- (g) such other procedural orders as may be made by the Magistrates' Court.

Issue of findings

8. Once the Regulator has heard or received all evidence and representations from the parties, the Regulator must issue his or her findings setting out whether the complaint or claim or response is upheld, not upheld, or upheld in part, and any further particulars, orders or recommendations provided for in the Ordinance.

Recall of decision

9. (1) An employer or employee may, within a reasonable time after becoming aware of any decision, apply to the Regulator to recall the decision if either party did not receive notice of the decision through no fault of its own, notwithstanding the methods of service prescribed by these regulations.

(1A) No such application may be made after one year from the date of the decision sought to be recalled.

(2) A copy of the application filed under paragraph (1) must be served on the other party.

(3) The Regulator may, on considering the application at a hearing, recall the decision subject to any order the Regulator thinks fit to make and the complaint or claim must thereafter proceed as if such decision and any subsequent decisions relating to it had not been made.

Service on parties

10. Service of any document on any person as provided for in these Regulations or the Ordinance must be made as provided for in the Civil Procedure Ordinance, 1968 and may be carried out by e-mail or fax.

Departure from procedures and time limits

11. (1) The Regulator may, subject to any express provisions contained in the Ordinance, direct that there be a departure from the procedures in any material respect or amend or adapt any time limits in these Regulations in a particular case for reasons of fairness or in order for the Regulator properly to consider a complaint or claim or response:

(2) The Regulator must canvass any departure from the procedures under paragraph (1) with the parties, setting out the nature and extent of such departure and the reasons for doing so and seeking the relevant party's response.

(3) Any party seeking an extension of a time limit under paragraph (1) must apply to the Regulator in writing and if the Regulator is satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable for a complaint or claim or response of any nature to be presented within the prescribed period, the regulator must extend the time limit subject to such order as he or she thinks fit.

3. Pay interval
4. Revoked
5. Payments to be excluded from calculation
6. Determination of hourly rate
7. Records
8. Remuneration
9. Disputes
10. Interpretation

Citation and commencement

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Employment Rights (Minimum Wage) Regulations, 2013 and come into force on 1st June 2013.

Determination of minimum wage

2. Revoked by Legal Notice 8 of 2018

Pay interval

3.⁹ The pay interval for purposes of these regulations is one calendar month, or in the case of an employee who is paid in accordance with his or her contract of employment by reference to a shorter period than one calendar month, that shorter period.

⁹ Regulation 3 substituted by L.N. 8/2018

Exclusions from minimum wage

4. Revoked by Legal Notice 8 of 2018

Payments to be excluded from calculation

5. Payments and other matters not to be included in the calculation of the minimum wage are—

- (a) payment of expenses actually and reasonably incurred in the performance of the employee's duties;
- (b) rest periods whether the time is spent resting at work or not;
- (c) payments in kind including meals and whether of monetary value or not, except living accommodation.
- (d) remuneration from commission, bonuses or tips.

Determination of hourly rate

6.¹⁰ (1) The hourly rate paid to an employee is to be determined by dividing the amount (whether for output or otherwise) of remuneration paid to the employee by the total hours actually worked in the pay interval.

(1A) In any calculation under sub-regulation (1) that shows payments of less than the minimum wage the employer will be regarded as having paid the minimum wage if the employer can show that within one calendar month of the end, or within one calendar month prior to the beginning of the pay interval, the employer made payments to the employee for work performed during the pay interval which when added to the other remuneration paid for work undertaken during the pay interval shows that the employer paid the employee at a rate at least equivalent to the then applicable minimum wage rate.

(2) Hours actually worked includes hours when the employee attended at work under the contract of employment even if no work was undertaken because the employer did not supply him or her with work to undertake.

(3) Work includes compulsory training provided by the employer which is incidental to the actual work undertaken under the employee's contract of employment.

(4) The applicable minimum wage rate is the minimum wage rate applying at the start of the pay interval.

Records

7.¹¹ (1) If the contract of employment requires submission to the employer of a record of hours worked, no minimum wage assessment is to be made by the Labour Regulating Authority until such a record has been submitted to the employer. If such a record is required for a pay interval the employer must pay the employee within that pay interval or within one calendar month of the end of the pay interval for which the record was submitted.

¹⁰ Regulation 6 amended by L.N. 8/2018

¹¹ Regulation 7 amended by L.N. 8/2018

(2) Every employer employing a person who qualifies for the minimum wage must keep in respect of such person records sufficient to establish that the employer is remunerating that person at a rate at least equal to the minimum wage rate.

Remuneration

- 8.¹² (1) The amount of remuneration must include as if not deducted—
- (a) any deduction that the employer is obliged to deduct under law or any order of any court or that the employer is lawfully entitled to make whether under the contract of employment or otherwise;
 - (b) any deduction made as a result of advance payment of wages or salary or as a result of a loan agreement with the employee;
 - (c) a deduction made to cover accidental overpayment of wages or salary if such deduction is otherwise lawful.

(2) An employee whose contract of employment includes the provision of living accommodation is entitled to be paid at the minimum wage rate but in any calculation of the hourly wage rate paid, the total remuneration may include the cost of any accommodation supplied to the employee up to a maximum of £5 per day, during the pay interval.

Disputes

9.¹³ Any dispute between the parties relating to the number of hours worked during the pay interval may be determined by the Labour Regulating Authority as a matter of fact.

Interpretation

10. For the purposes of these Regulations, living accommodation is only provided on days when it is provided for a whole day from midnight to midnight.

¹⁴ Regulation 1 amended by L.N. 1/2020

employer for a period of at least 26 weeks on the date on which the parental leave starts or the date of the child's birth, whichever is earlier.

(7) An employee intending to take parental leave referred to in sub-regulation (5) must no later than 28 days before the date on which the parental leave starts, or as soon as reasonably possible, notify his or her employer of the date on which that employee so intends such leave to start.

(8) An employee on parental leave under sub-regulation (5) may, at least 10 days before the expected date of return of that employee from such leave, request additional parental leave or request to return to work on a part time basis.

(9) An employee is entitled to 2 weeks adoption leave which may be taken at any time during the period commencing 3 months before the date on which the employee is notified under the Welfare of Children Ordinance, 2008, that a child is to be, or expected to be, placed with the employee and ending one year after the date on which the child is placed with the employee for adoption.

(10) The provisions of sub-regulation (9) apply in the same manner to an employee who is the spouse or life partner of the child's adopting parent referred to in that sub-regulation and who has, or expects to have, the main responsibility (in addition to the responsibility of the adopting parent) for the upbringing of the child.

(11) An employee intending to take adoption leave referred to in sub-regulation (9) must no later than 28 days before the date on which the adoption leave starts, or as soon as reasonably possible, notify his or her employer of the date on which that employee so intends such leave to start.

(12) Adoption leave under sub-regulation (9) must be on full pay if the employee has been continuously employed by the employer for a period of at least 26 weeks on the date on which the adoption leave starts or the date on which the child is placed with the employee, whichever is earlier.

(13) An employee on adoption leave under sub-regulation (9) may, at least 10 days before the expected date of return of that employee from such leave, request additional adoption leave or request to return to work on a part time basis.

(14) An employee's entitlement to leave under this regulation is not affected—

- (a) by the birth, or expected birth, of more than one child as a result of the same pregnancy; or
 - (b) if the child was stillborn after 24 weeks of pregnancy or has died.
