- (d) any person or business entity not habitually resident in or registered in St Helena being a director, trustee or trust corporation of a business entity operating in any guise in St Helena;
 - (e) any person or business entity not habitually resident in or registered in St Helena being able to, or intended to, exercise any form of management or control of a business entity operating in any guise in St Helena.
- (2) To determine whether the higher monetary limit or the lower monetary limit has been exceeded the value of all transactions, or series of transactions, being undertaken or proposed to be undertaken shall be aggregated.

Duty not to engage in abusive business practices

- 7. (1) It is the duty of all persons and business entities in St Helena not to engage in or facilitate any abusive business practice by anyone.
- (2) It is the duty of any person or business entity who has to any extent involvement in the management or control of a business entity in St Helena not to permit, connive in or, through their neglect, allow any business entity in St Helena or elsewhere to engage in or facilitate any abusive business practice.
- (3) It is the duty of any person or business entity supplying professional services not to provide or facilitate the use of abusive business practices by any business entity whether in St Helena or elsewhere.

Duty to report suspicions or knowledge of abusive business practices

- 8. (1) It is the duty of any person or business entity who—
 - (a) has to any extent involvement in the management or control of a business entity in St Helena, and
 - (b) knows or suspects, or would know or suspect if reasonable enquiries were made, that the business entity or any business entity with which it is associated is engaging in abusive business practices,to report such matters in writing to the Chief of Police within the reporting period.
- (2) It is the duty of any person or business entity who—
 - (a) supplies professional services to a business entity in St Helena, and
 - (b) knows or suspects, or would know or suspect if reasonable enquiries were made, that the business entity or any business entity with which it is associated is engaging in abusive business practices,to report such matters in writing to the Chief of Police within the reporting period.
- (3) Nothing in subsection (2) shall require anyone to include in a report anything that would involve breaching any privilege relating to legal advice being sought or given.

Duty to exercise due diligence when providing professional services

9. (1) It shall be the duty of any person or business entity providing professional services involving any transaction or series of transactions in excess of the lower monetary limit to exercise due diligence—
- (a) before engaging with or contracting with or providing any professional services to any other person or business entity;
 - (b) before engaging to, undertaking, facilitating, enabling or providing any advice concerning any significant transaction;
 - (c) periodically and no less a frequency of once every 24 months;
- (2) It shall be the duty of any person or business entity providing professional services required to exercise due diligence to retain the evidence that it has exercised due diligence for at least six years from the date of it carrying out the due diligence.

Requisition for Information

10. (1) Any authorised officer who has reasonable grounds for suspecting that a person or business entity has or may have knowledge of abusive business practices connected in some way to the jurisdiction of St Helena may, in accordance with this section, serve a requisition for information in writing on that person or business entity.
- (2) Any requisition for information must include—
- (a) the business entity or business entities about whom the particulars and information is being sought either by name, or by some other convenient class or description,
 - (b) the particulars and information being sought,
 - (c) the date by which the requested information and particulars must be provided,
 - (d) the contact details (including telephone numbers, physical address and email address) for the person or entity who has served the requisition for information, and
 - (e) a copy of this Ordinance accompanied by a notice highlighting at least the following

 - (xi) anyone in receipt of profits, dividends or entitled to benefit from any arrangement, and
 - (xii) ownership, management or control of any asset or monies.
- (4) A requisition for information may require any person or business entity to produce the evidence it obtained when it exercised due diligence.
- (5) A requisition for information shall not require information to be provided in any period of less than 28 days.
- (6) The authorised officer may, at any time before the time when the required information is due to be provided,—
- (a) withdraw or modify the requisition for information, or
 - (b) extend the time within which the required information is due to be provided,
- providing always that where a modification extends the obligation to provide information and particulars the time within which they must be provided must be extended by at least an additional 28 days.

Duty to respond appropriately to a requisition for information

- 11. (1) It is the duty of any person or any business entity on whom a requisition for information has been served to—
- (a) provide the particulars and information sought within the period specified in the requisition or otherwise agreed, and
 - (b) provide true and complete particulars and information.
- (2) It is the duty of any person or any business entity on whom a requisition for information has been served not to—
- (a) provide false or misleading information, or

- (b) provide any information that the person providing the information does not believe to be true.
- (3) It is the duty of any person or any business entity who has to any extent the control or management of a person or business entity on who a requisition has been served to ensure that the duties specified in subsections (1) and (2) are complied with.
- (4) It is the duty of any person or any business entity providing professional services on whom a requisition for information has been served concerning a person or business entity they have provided professional services to—
 - (a) provide the particulars and information sought within the period specified in the requisition or otherwise agreed, and
 - (b) provide true and complete particulars and information.

Protection and use of the information and particulars provided in response to a requisition for information

- 12. (1) An authorised officer in receipt of a response to a requisition shall keep the information provided securely and confidentially.
- (2) Nothing in subsection (1) prevents the sharing of the information with—
- (a) any other authorised officer;
 - (b) any outside agency that the authorised officer considers to be properly interested in the information;
 - (c) any person or entity in any jurisdiction properly involved or concerned in the suppression of or tracing or investigating of any abusive business practices including those involved in—
 - (i) detection or suppression of crime,
 - (ii) collection of customs or taxes,
 - (iii) administration or registration of businesses,
 - (iv) administration or registration of trusts,
 - (v) tracing of assets,
 - (vi) winding up of businesses, and
 - (vii) insolvency, bankruptcy or making arrangements with creditors.

Admissibility of reports and responses to requisitions for information

- 13. (1) Any report made pursuant to section 8 and within the reporting period—
- (a) shall not be admissible in evidence against the person making the report other than with regard to proceedings for an offence pursuant to section 18(3), but
 - (b) will otherwise be admissible in evidence against any other person or for use in relation to the registration of businesses entities and their particulars.
- (2) Any report made pursuant to section 8 outside the reporting period may be admissible in evidence in proceedings against the person making the report where the court determines that admitting such evidence is, in all the circumstances, just and reasonable.

- (3) Where a requisition for information was lawfully made and complied with the requirements of section 10, any response to that requisition (or none) shall be admissible in evidence against any person or entity in all proceedings, including criminal proceedings against or involving the person or entity who replied to or made the return or should have replied or made the return in respect of the requisition.

Court Orders

14. (1) The Supreme Court may, on the application of any authorised officer, and upon being satisfied that a person or business entity is engaged in or is intending to engage in, facilitate or enable any abusive business practices, by Order—
 - (a) prohibit the commencement or continuation of any business practice,
 - (b) prohibit any person engaged in the control or management of a person or business entity from carrying on in the control or management of the person or business entity in question or any other person or business entity for a period of up to 10 years,
 - (c) freeze any or all assets of that person or business entity until further Order,
 - (d) confiscate any or all assets of that person or business entity;
 - (e) require the compulsory winding up of the person or business entity in question, or
 - (f) make any other Order as the court deems necessary or appropriate.
- (2) In making any Order pursuant to subsection (1) the Supreme Court shall specify the date or dates—
 - (a) from which the Order or any aspect of the Order shall take effect, and
 - (b) where necessary or appropriate the date or dates by which the Order or any aspect of the Order shall have been completed or finalised.
- (3) In addition to making any of the Orders specified in subsection (1) the Supreme Court may make such other incidental orders, including orders as to costs, as it deems necessary including Orders intended to frustrate the avoidance of the effects of any Order.
- (4) The Supreme Court may require the attendance in court of any authorised officer whether or not they are the authorised officer having made the application in subsection (1).
- (5) Any person with an interest in the person or business entity in question before the Supreme Court, or who has served a requisition for information, has a right to be heard in any proceedings before the Supreme Court seeking any of the Orders listed in subsections (1) or (3).
- (6) Nothing in subsection (5) precludes or prevents the Supreme Court from proceeding in the absence of any person or party if satisfied that it is reasonable and appropriate in the circumstances to do so.
- (7) Any authorised officer or person or business entity affected by any Order made by the Supreme Court may apply to the Supreme Court to have the Order in question modified or discharged.

- (8) Any person aggrieved by an Order or decision of the Supreme Court may appeal to the Court of Appeal within 28 days of the date of the Order or decision.

Confiscation

15. In any case where the Supreme Court orders the confiscation of any assets, such assets (or the proceeds of sale of such assets) shall be paid into the Consolidated Fund.

Reverse burden of proof

16. In any circumstances where a court is considering whether a business practice is abusive, once the court is satisfied there are reasonable grounds for suspecting that the business practice in question could amount to an abusive business practice then it will be for the person or entity contending that the business practice is not abusive to demonstrate that to the court's satisfaction on the balance of probabilities.

Assistance to outside agencies

17. (1) Any outside agency may request any authorised officer to serve a requisition for information on any person or business entity connected with or in St Helena.
- (2) The authorised officer receiving the request from an outside agency to serve a requisition for information must be satisfied that there is a proper basis for serving such a requisition under this Ordinance before doing so.
- (3) The authorised officer receiving the request to serve a requisition for information from an outside agency may, by application, seek the assistance of the Supreme Court to determine any relevant question or uncertainty that may arise.
- (4) It is for the Supreme Court to determine whether it will permit a representative of any outside agency to be heard in any of its proceedings.

Offences

18. (1) Any person who fails to discharge any duty imposed by this Ordinance shall be guilty of an offence.
- PENALTY: in the case of a business entity a fine of £250,000 or 20% of its assets within St Helena whichever is the greater;
- In the case of an individual a fine of £250,000 and a term of imprisonment of 2 years.
- (2) It is an offence for any person on whom a requisition for information is served, or who has to any extent control of the business entity on whom the requisition for information has been served—
- (a) to fail to provide the particulars and information required within the time period specified in the requisition or as may otherwise have been agreed or extended,
- (b) to provide false or misleading particulars and information in response to a requisition for information, or

- (c) to provide particulars and information in response to a requisition for information that the person providing the particulars and information does not believe to be true.

PENALTY: in the case of a business entity a fine of £250,000 or 20% of its assets within St Helena whichever is the greater;

In the case of an individual a fine of £250,000 and a term of imprisonment of 2 years.

- (3) It is an offence for any person to make a report pursuant to section 8 which contains information that the person making the report knows to be false, or does not believe to be true.

PENALTY: in the case of a business entity a fine of £250,000 or 20% of its assets within St Helena whichever is the greater;

In the case of an individual a fine of £250,000 and a term of imprisonment of 2 years.

- (4) It is an offence for any person, without reasonable excuse, to fail to comply with any Order of the Supreme Court made pursuant to section 14.
